UNION FIGHTS P.S.C.O. PLAN TO DROP 300 OF ITS MEN

Files Protest Against 'Economy' Decision — Stanley Clarke Says 51 Shopmen Will Be Laid Off Tonight, Some Carmen Later.

COMPANY REJECTS COUNTER PROPOSAL

That Is to Give Employees One Day Off in Eight So as to Provide Work for Men Who Are Slated for Discharge.

Officers of the Street Car Men's Union today filed a protest against the proposed dismissal of 300 men by the Public Service Co. as an economy measure.

Harry M. Nelson, president of the union, said he was informed by the company that 50 shopmen would be laid off tonight, and that the services of 250 motormen and conductors on the "extra list" could no longer be needed. June 1 cause of the reduction in service, Stanley Clarke, president of the company, in a prepared statement today, said 51 shop employees would be laid off tonight, but that it had not been decided how many motormen and conductors would be laid off.

Nelson and Robert B. Armstrong, international union vice-president, immediately requested that the company give all operations a one-day day off in eight, thus providing employment for the extra men. They said the request was refused by Sam W. Greenleaf, general manager of the company.

All of the extra platform men are members of the Carmen's union, while only six of the discharged shopmen belong to the organization, according to Nelson.

"Incredible," Union Head Says.

"While we can only speak for our members, we are just as much disturbed over the impending dismissal of the non-union shop employees, as over our own men."

Nelson said: "To lay off men under present conditions, when it is practically impossible to find another job, is inexcusable."

"The men affected have come to us and asked us to do what we can for them. It is to help their families," he continued.

The situation is especially unfair because we have offered a solution, which will not cost the company a cent. Our suggestion has been refused point blank, and the only thing that will save the jobs of these men is a public protest against such tactics."

Nelson said: "The company has announced that 14 runs were to be withdrawn at the De Baliviere shed, six at Jefferson Avenue and five at Wellington on June 1. Extra men receive a guarantee of $1 a month and frequently make slightly more than that. The withdrawal of runs will throw older and less able men home, but no evidence as to the cause was brought out at today's inquest."

The accused woman steadfastly maintained her innocence. She said her nephew had been ill with septic sore throat and spinal meningitis, and her husband a sufferer from heart trouble. Riemann said Mrs. Summers, died at the St. Louis Hospital after contracting a cold, and Lanigan suffered stomach ulcer.

Three women relatives of the dead men occupied front seats at the inquest. It was they who communicated their suspicions to the authorities and demanded exhaustion of the bodies.

Mrs. Mathilda Kuhn, a friend of the deceased, told the jury Mrs. Summers had related last summer that she had passed her husband because of his attentions to Kuhn's daughter.

"The trouble with me is that I've always been too good to everybody," said the woman in her cell. "They're saying I poisoned my husband, Thomas. Why, we never had any trouble."

"The way this insurance business started, Tom was a friend of A. Taylor, an insurance agent, and Taylor recommended policies to help him out. That's how he got into the union," said Kuhn.

"The trouble with me is that I've always been too good to everybody," said the woman in her cell. "They're saying I poisoned my husband, Thomas. Why, we never had any trouble."

"We have no intention of asking for a wage increase," Nelson said. "Our only interest at this time is to keep all the men at work."

Nelson said the development caused by the dismissal of the men

Poison Found in Bodies in Chicago — All Insured in Suspect's Favor.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 26.—Mrs. Margaret Summers, 47-year-old widow was accused today of poisoning four members of her household who had made her the beneficiary of their life insurance policies.

of each for himself and the take the hindmost. us labor unions in this country have a great deal of difficulty making headway. They have been in trenching them- in a few trades and industries.

They have secured legal protection of their right to exist, the general attitude toward remains one of hostility. Rel- few people really believe that workers have a right like in order to secure favors, terms, just as capitalistic it closes a plant that cannot operate at a profit. Instinctively most people still believe a is a form of holdup.

The courts have reflected this by outrageously abusing power in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes. In states where power is in it has been used to help de- strikers. The worker in this country, except in a few industries establishments, has no security whatever. The weight of public opinion and the organized force of the state still operate to his achieving such a status. Meanwhile, unfortunately, the membership of many of the existing unions in which have made strikes a mandatory type of organization. As a result, unduly discredit has been cast upon unionism as a whole.

"Must Be Organization."

All this must change before we hope to eliminate the unbalance production and consumption in our country. It is one of the major causes of depressions and unemployment in our economy.

A more or less social justice alone, but more of self-preservation, existing order and as an es- sential foundation for enduring prosperity, there must be widespread realization of the wage earners in our country. In no other way purchasing power be main- tained so successfully, or capital be invested so effectively from rush- ing away to countries which do not contribute their share of adequately supported wage rates to the nation's economy.

Ordinary citizens can take no direct measures to promote labor organizations. But they can insist on the use of the injunction in their disputes be curbed. They can also insist that the public force is not used to beat up strikers unjustly. They can, by contributing to a public opinion which will realize that organiza- tion control is normal and necessary in a world of large-scale produc- tion. In other countries organization for workers is axiomatic. One need only think re- spectively an economic order in which the laborer stands alone in gaining with huge corporations even with smaller employers. America must become up-to-date this matter. Unthinking tra- ditional individualism in these States must disappear."

KILLING OF POLITICIAN, WRITER, LAID TO GANGS

Los Angeles Prosecutor Thinks Ex-Aid, Who Is Accused, Was Ring's Agent.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 26.—District Attorney Burton Flits said today he had evidence to show that his former assistant and candidate for judge, David H. Clark, held for the murder of Herbert Spencer, magazine writer and editor, and Charles Crawford, wealthy politician, was agent for a gang of robbers and bank robbers.

"Bankers and mobsters and there was murder," Flits said. He declared Spencer and Crawford were trying to get into Clark's ring when they were slain here last Wednesday.

The Los Angeles Examiner says Crawford and Spencer planned to obtain control of radio broadcasting station to strengthen their political power.

Search of two safety deposit boxes made by Crawford in separate banks yielded only four rubber bands and an old automobile driver's license. A third box was sought with the aid of Federal Internal Revenue operatives.

Search for June Taylor, who con- fered at San Quentin penitentiary with Albert Marco, Los Angeles underworld leader serving a term there, shortly after the double killing, was continued unsuccessfully.

Mrs. Ethel Hamlin, sixth witness in the case, was found yesterday. She said she heard the shooting and was asked to answer the general description of Clark come from the bulleting in which Crawford had his office. Spencer and Crawford were killed as they conferred with a third man in Crawford's office.

To see him to sell the Pierre Chouteau bonds.

The prosecution also obtained evidence of Norwine's possession of lists of securities in State depositories from S. A. Killian, who was president of the defunct Farmers' Exchange Bank of Marshfield.

Killian related that Norwine sold him two $50,000 lots of Pierre Chouteau bonds. It was necessary for the bank to dispose of Liberty bonds to meet its customers' demands. Norwine talked to him, he said, Norwine had a list which seemed to include all the securities he had on deposit with the State Auditor's warrant or a State Treasurer's check.

Paid $1000 Commission.

Asked to describe Norwine, Killian said he was "about six feet one, tall, of dark complexion, always well dressed and always a good figure." After the purchase of the first $50,000 of the bonds the bank received a check for $653.67 from the Provident Co., which, with $116.23 accrued interest, amounted to $1000. Norwine appeared at the bank the same day, Killian said, and explained that the $1000 was his commission on the sale, and the bank paid it to him without question.

He said he had arranged it that the money should be sent to the bank. Killian testified, "but later we learned that was not true. The Three Men Taken in East St. Louis Reach Lincoln on Special Railroad Car, Heavily Guarded.

PUT IN PENITENTIARY FOR SAFE-KEEPING

Gov. Bryan Sees Prisoners, Suspected in $2,800,000 Bank Holdup, Walk Into Prison.

By the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 26.—Jack Britt, Howard Lee and Thomas O'Connor, East St. Louis gangsters charged with the $2,800,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co., arrived here today in a special railroad car from Chicago under guard of Sheriff Hensel and 18 heavily-armed deputies, four of whom had submachine guns.

The men were taken immediately to the State penitentiary for safekeeping. Gov. Bryan of Nebraska was among the spectators as they were marched into the gate. O'Connor and Lee handcuffed together and Britt walking alone, his hands manacled before him.

Both at the penitentiary and at the railway station the gangsters seemed to enjoy the attention their presence was receiving. They laughed and joked continuously among themselves and with their guards.

150 Persons at Station.

About 150 persons were on hand at the station to see the men taken from the train and placed in automobiles. Among the spectators were Mayor Frank Zehring, State Sheriff Michael Endres and other city and State officials.

Deputy County Attorney Frank Young announced the gangsters would be tried in Municipal Court tomorrow or Thursday and that their trial probably would be set for either June 8 or June 29. Ventures have been called for both days.

The party left Chicago last night after the three had finally failed their flight against removal to Nebraska. Sheriff Hensel ordered the special car to accommodate the bandits and the car was provided by the Government.

He was not permitted to testify as to any of the details of the visit, as he said he did not talk to Brunk, the conversation being between his brother, J. A. Killian, and the cashier of the bank and Brunk.

Brunk's Bank Deposits.

The managers for the hours late yesterday introduced in evidence the ledger sheets of Brunk's account in the First National Bank in Jefferson City for the period since his election in 1928, in 1929, in 1930 and in 1931. The books showed the ninth of the articles of impeachment.

It was charged that Brunk had deposited large sums of money to his personal account, much more than his salary and fees as State Treasurer. The managers made no effort to show the source of the funds deposited, seemingly offering the bank account merely as circumstantial evidence from which they expected the Senators trying the case to draw their own conclusions.

Writs Refused in Chicago.

Judge Charles A. Williams at Chicago denied writs of habeas corpus to the three yesterday morning, thus ending their fight against extradition. They were arrested on May 8 in a raid in East St. Louis along with three other gangsters and were identified by the Lincoln robbery after they had been moved to Chicago.

Edgar O'Hearn, another of the arrested men, the East St. Louis raid, was transferred to Indianapolis, where he had been indicted for Neuron conspiracy. Last week he was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary when he pleaded guilty before United States District Judge Baltzell.

Tommy Hayes, notorious St. Louis gunman, and "Bow Wow" McQuillan, co-proprietor of the Mound City gambling house near East St. Louis, also were taken in the raid but were released when witnesses failed to identify them in connection with any crimes.

BANKER FREED OF $2,000,000 EMBEZZLEMENT

Former Head of Bancokentucky Company Acquited of Charge Based on Note Indorsement.

By the Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 26.—James B. Brown, former president of Bancokentucky Co., was freed today of a charge of embezzlement in connection with indorsement of a $2,000,000 note to the company.

The trial of Charles F. Jones, former vice president, indicted on the same charge, was set for June 2, after Brown's acquittal. Defense attorneys said the charge against Jones should be dismissed, since the principal was acquitted. Commonwealth Attorney W. Clarke Otto said his office would look into the charge before the trial date.

The jury that tried Brown deliberated three hours and 20 minutes. A hour before returning the verdict, last night, the jurors told the Court they were deadlocked, but were instructed by Judge A. T. Burgevin to continue deliberating. The defense presented no testimony during the trial.

The indictments were based on a note Brown executed to his brokers, Wakefield & Co., which subsequently was indorsed to the Bancokentucky Co., of which Brown was president. Brown also is president of the closed National Bank of Kentucky and publisher of the Louisville Herald-Post, now being operated by a receiver in bankruptcy.

Brown and Jones are under Federal indictments charging wilful misapplication of funds of the National Bank of Kentucky in connection with a transaction involving $46,177. They are accused of ordering Wakefield & Co. to purchase stock without consent of the bank's directors. No date has been set for the Federal trials.

SEVENTH SUIT AGAINST EATON

JUDGES ARE TO STUDY PROPOSED NEW RULES

He Is Named With Former Officers of Continental Shares.

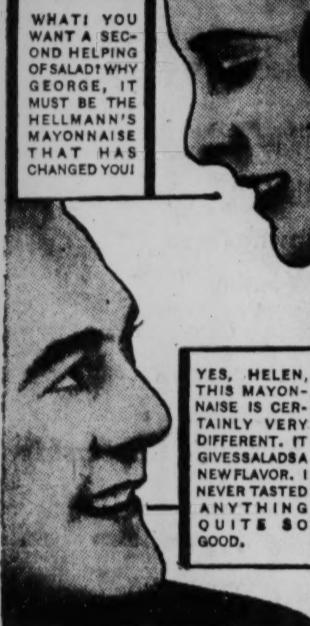

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., May 26.—The number of suits against Cyrus S. Eaton, former chairman of Continental Shares and the former board of directors was raised to seven with the filing of a suit by Charles S. Wachner, a stockholder.

In his fourth suit Wachner asks for return of $1,100,000 lent by Continental to Industrial Shares Inc. Wachner's petition asserts that the loan was made "without proper and adequate collateral." Suits against Eaton and the former officers of Continental, which was reorganized a month ago, now total $12,000,000.

Pleases Husbands

Here's a unique mayonnaise that quickly wins the men:

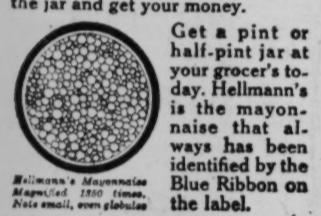

WIVES: Here's a mayonnaise you can't wait to try at once... particularly if your husband is not enthusiastic about salads. Its appeal to men, you will agree, is extraordinary!

The reason for its unique flavor? Carefully chosen ingredients, first of all. Breakfast eggs, special salad oils, thrice strained vinegar, an unusual blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions of famous old French recipe.

And then double whipping... a special scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection. See photograph below.

TRY HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE ON THE next salad that you serve your husband. If either of you feels that it doesn't taste good, come to every promise we make, please take back the jar and get your money.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings on intestinal worms spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN taken daily will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

JUDGES ARE TO STUDY PROPOSED NEW RULES

Action Is Taken as Result of Letter of Protest Written by Judge Rutledge.

The Circuit Judges, in general term meeting yesterday, ordered that a copy of proposed new rules of court, which had been prepared by a special committee, be furnished each Judge. Parts showing changes in the present rules and what faults would be remedied by a reform were included.

The action was taken as a result of a letter written by Judge Rutledge to his colleagues. Judge Rutledge expressed regret that the special committee was discharged by vote of a majority of the Judges "after its work was practically finished but before same was reported and submitted." He was chairman of the committee composed of members of the judiciary and representatives of the Bar Association.

Judge Rutledge outlined what the report would have been and contended the committee had devised a set of modern and efficient rules for management of the business of the Civil Court which would have the effect of expediting trials.

The plan includes an automatic setting of cases in numerical case number order, thereby minimizing possible favoritism in the docketing and assignments of cases, and provides for an assignment commissioner under control of the presiding Judge, saving probably two days' time each week for that Judge.

It also would do away with the system of trial calendar, preventing waste of time of lawyers, litigants and witnesses in attending the call. Other features embraced in the plan include the automatic moving of each case to the top of the day trial calendar so that such dockets will not "blow up"; prevents continuances because of unfavorable place on docket and eliminates continuances because of lack of time to docket.

Another reform suggested is that the two equity courts as now constituted shall be abolished so that all civil divisions try both jury and equity cases. This would relieve the monotony of similar trials.

Careful consideration will be given by the Judges, it was stated, to ascertain if the proposed change would not interfere with the present assignment system. It was stated erroneously in the Post-Dispatch last week that the J-judges had voted to reject the rules. The rejection was on a proposed change in the manner of summing up juries.

The meeting yesterday was the first under an amended rule which had been adopted in the last week of the closing term of court, when no jury trials are scheduled. Heretofore they have met on the first day of the opening of the new term of court. By the change one day is gained for the trial of jury cases.

The reason for its unique flavor? Carefully chosen ingredients, first of all. Breakfast eggs, special salad oils, thrice strained vinegar, an unusual blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions of famous old French recipe.

And then double whipping... a special scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection. See photograph below.

TRY HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE ON THE next salad that you serve your husband. If either of you feels that it doesn't taste good, come to every promise we make, please take back the jar and get your money.

SUIT FOR LEONARDO APARTS.
RECEIVER ENDS BY AGREEMENT

Joint Awards Made to Realty Dealer and Lawyers; Action Brought by Bondholder.

The suit filed by William Schultz, a bondholder, for a receiver for Leonardo apartments, 4165 Lindell boulevard, was dismissed in Circuit Court yesterday.

It was said the differences between the parties had been adjusted. Under the terms of a stipulation John H. Farish, realty dealer, and Max Sigaloff, an attorney, received a joint award of $500 for their services and costs for the suit, $1,000 in all. The counsel included Herbert E. Barnard, Hyman G. Stein and Ralph Gleason. Judge Hartmann made the appointments.

Schultz alleged that a default had occurred in payment of a $200,000 bond issue.

UNIDENTIFIED YOUTH KILLED
IN RAILROAD YARDS AT DUPONTEntangled With Car and Dragged When Switch Engine Starts Moving.

An unidentified youth was killed in the Missouri Pacific Railroad yards at Dupont, Ill., yesterday afternoon, while lying beside a railroad car.

His feet were braced against the journal box of the car and his head against a tie when a switch engine struck the other end of the car and started it moving. One of the youth's feet was caught and his back was broken as the car continued.

A companion, held as a witness, said he knew the dead youth as "Buck." The youth, about 19 years old, was five feet 10 inches tall, weighed 155 pounds, had brown hair, gray eyes and was dressed in overalls and a black sweater.

NEW YORK PROSECUTOR FREED OF 9 CHARGES

T. C. Crain Still Under Inquiry on Other Complaints in Ouster Hearing.

By the Associated Press, NEW YORK, May 26.—Nine of the charges on which the City Club asked Gov. Roosevelt to oust District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain were dismissed yesterday by Commissioner Samuel Seabury, who is presiding at the removal proceedings.

Samuel Usterman, counsel for the prosecutor, opened his defense with several witnesses who testified that Crain had been efficient in office. Among these were Police Commissioner Mulrooney and General Sessions Judge Corrigan, former Chief Magistrate.

The defense began its case six weeks after the public hearings started.

The items in the complaint stricken out by the commissioner are:

The Rothstein murder case.

The Pathé Studio fire investigation.

The Probation Bureau fraud cases.

Illegalities in connection with employment.

Employment agency investigations.

Building department permit matters.

Revelations about Wolfman, burglar lawyer.

The inquiry into the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice James F. Foley.

The teachers' pay racket.

Remaining against the District Attorney are charges that he failed to prosecute certain public officers; that his investigation into magistrates' courts was "puerile and ineffective"; that he has been wasteful; that he has brought the state into disrepute; and that he is disreputable that he failed to make adequate investigation into charges of grafting in the department of purchase and the board of standards and appeals; that he failed to stop racketeering in the freight and delivery business; and that he did not properly handle the problems of illegal gambling, racketeering and ball-bond illegalities.

The commissioner also announced he would hold Crain accountable for eight stock fraud investigations.

Commissioner Mulrooney testified he never saw a District Attorney more willing to co-operate with him than Crain. After several Sundays going over evidence in certain cases, he testified, and gave up his Columbus day holiday last year to investigate the shooting of Jack ("Legs") Diamond.

2000 TICKETS ON RACE SEIZED

Officers raided an apartment yesterday afternoon and arrested Mrs. Marie Goulet, who is accused of being a general agent for the "Turf." They reported seizure of 2000 tickets which bore the names of the winners. They also seized thousands of unsold lottery tickets and 200 books of 10 tickets each with only the stubs showing names and addresses of purchasers. Tickets, police said, sold for $1 each.

A Combination Fabric that Washes Like Lingerie

A totally new invention—scientifically constructed of a marvelous combination fabric, exactly right in weight. No other reducing garment is made of this self-same material. The weight is just right to accomplish its purpose—heavier than the fabric used in any other reducing corset—a weight determined by months of research and experiment. Next to the body is a soft, absorbent finishing cloth—outside is a bright, lustrous silk, and between these two is an interlining of famous Rubber-Tex—a patented and tested material. No rubber odor—and may be washed and washed just like your lingerie.

CARNERA OUT, WALKER MAY GET CHANCE AT JACK SHARKEY

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 26.—Floored by the Federal Court's temporary injunction that barred Primo Carnera as an opponent, Jimmy Johnston, boxing promoter, began an intensive search today for a suitable rival for Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight.

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday granted the request of the Madison Square Garden of Illinois men from meeting Sharkey for Johnston at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, June 10. The court order barred the ponderous Johnston from meeting Sharkey or any other major opponent without the consent of the Illinois Corporation which holds a contract on Carnera's service.

George Sylvester, counsel for Primo Carnera, today announced he would file an appeal June 1 from the decision of Federal Judge John Knox restraining Carnera from meeting Jack Sharkey in a bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, June 10.

Sylvester said he would move the appeal be set down on the calendar of the Circuit Court of Appeals for argument before its summer session is taken.

Johnston declared he would appeal the ruling.

"I'm going to appeal the decision at once and hope to promote a Carnera-Sharkey fight later in the year. Meanwhile I'm busy digging up some one else to meet Sharkey on June 10," he said.

The name of Tommy Loughran was suggested, but the clever Philadelphia manager, Joe Smith, said Tommy was not interested in another bout with Sharkey.

With Loughran out, Johnston's next best bet looked to be Mickey Walker, who has been belting heavyweight around in fine form for some months. Johnston said he was doing his best to get in touch with Jack Kearns, Walker's manager.

Madison Square Garden of Illinois signed Carnera to a contract calling for the big Italian to batte the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stirling bout which is to be held in Cleveland July 5.

The Federal injunction will be operative, barring a reversal by a higher court, until trial of the suit instituted by the Illinois Corporation to enforce its contract with Carnera. In the meantime Carnera is protected by a $60,000 bond which the Court ordered Garden officials to put up.

IRISH HURLERS OPPOSE ANDYS IN SOCCER GAME

At Hennepin Park in University City, the German Sport Club No. 2 will play the Walahs in the University City Amateur Twelfth Soccer League second round. George Schweizer and George "Dopey" Schimmler will be the officials. They will start at 6:15 p. m. A postponed game between the Walahs and the Hallwings, scheduled for last night, was again called off because of the bad condition of the field.

M'LARNIN PLANS RUSHING ATTACK IN PETROLEUM GO

By the Associated Press.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 26.

There's a surprise waiting for rugged Billy Petrolle in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and the clogging Fargo Express might just be well known.

He'll hardly recognize Jimmy McLarnin when the Van Dusen blaster hits his fists as the first bell calls him out to avenge the worst defeat he ever suffered. They met for the first time last November, when McLarnin was headed for the welterweight throne and Billy was just another old lightweight, though he was to be a good fighter to come back.

McLarnin took an amazing beating.

Jimmy took it, though, like a fighting man, and the fans went wild, shouting and cheering.

McLarnin is still on his feet, though, though whipped, his right hand fractured, but still smiling. While the right hand mended and old "Pop" Foster, his manager, dickered for a return bout, Jimmy pondered the reasons for that licking. He believes he knows now why he lost and the critics who saw him as a final training bout may be right.

"I tried to lean back and pull away from Petrolle's long left hook," he explained as he lay on a rubbing table, scarcely breathing heavily after two rounds of fanboying and a half dozen of calisthenics, the last work he did before the match. "But instead of getting away from his punches I backed into them. He hit me so hard on the chin in the third round I had no idea what was going on for the next three. My right thumb broke in the second round. I was at sea all at once."

"Now I have changed my style entirely. I'm going into this time instead of pulling away. This time I'm going to force the fight. This time I'm going to take the licking."

Jimmy's right hand, broken first on the chin, is the reason he's been one of the seven world champions.

Though Cupid puts him on the spot, the trouble is he won't stay shot.

NEITHER PARTY MAKING MOVE FOR TAX RISE
Republican Independents Call for Increase but Without Regular Support.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—Noticeable in discussions over the possible $900,000,000 deficit this year is the lack of a definite recommendation for a tax increase from official headquarters of either party.

The new Congress meeting in December is almost equally divided politically. That session runs directly into the presidential campaign and increasing taxes at such a time causes political leaders to ponder considerably.

Republican Independents, who will hold the balance of power next session, have called for a tax increase. Without the support of regulars of either major party who control the House Ways and Means Committee a tax revision is doubtful.

President Hoover is asking department chiefs to reduce Government expenditures but the recent statements of Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary Mills of the Treasury failed to give any hope for permanent lowering of the budget.

Tax Level Going Up.

Senator Hull (Dem.), Tennessee, wants that the peace-time level of governmental expenditures is already on the increase, "and it will be greater for 1931 and subsequent years."

While a tax increase next session is not in sight, already there is argument as to how the burden of such an increase shall be distributed if it is ordered. This debate becomes more important in the thoughts of congressional leaders that a future boost in taxes will be more or less permanent.

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, interprets the recent warning of Secretary Mellon against the narrow base of taxation as an opening wedge to extend the levy to smaller incomes. Such a move, say Senator Borah, "is on the same principle as the lowering of wages—both would have the effect of reducing still further the purchasing power of the great body of the people."

Recommendation of Couzens.

Senator Couzens, Michigan, a Republican member of the Finance Committee, demands tax revision at once to balance the budget. He proposes retention of the gift tax and a reduction in the estate tax. Mellon has repeatedly urged repeal of the estate tax.

The Michigan Senator also sees no reason to end the surtax graduation at incomes of $100,000, applying equally to all incomes above that amount. He regards favorably increases in the surtax rates on such incomes.

Senator Hull, in a statement issued through the Democratic National Committee last night, said: "Our Federal administrations during the past 10 years could to a wonderful advantage have pursued the fiscal axioms that 'economy is better than taxation, and taxation is better than borrowing.'

Treasury Missed Opportunity.

"It is a pity," Hull said, "that the Treasury often failed entirely to grasp the real depth and breadth of the business collapse when Congress met both in December, 1929, and December, 1930, and promptly make fiscal recommendations calculated to meet the conditions of the fiscal stress then plainly discernible in the future."

"The corporations in the previous year, 1929, had on hand surpluses and undivided profits of $53,000,000,000, and these doubtless were much greater in 1929. The Treasury, however, turned its back on this golden opportunity to reach swollen profits sufficient at least to take care of the fiscal year 1930, and instead proposed as a panic relief measure an actual reduction of 1 per cent in the entire normal tax."

Charlie Safford wasn't always so healthy. But his mother didn't realize how much below average he was until she compared him with Thompson's Life Line Chart (see offer below.) In three months she built him up and has kept him above average ever since. Read the secret here—

Perfect digestion is vital to children; they must eat and digest more than grown folks in order to grow. The greatest helpers for little stomachs are enzymes. Thompson's "Double Malted" (double enzymes) digests five times its own weight of other foods. Helps young, growing bodies get full benefit from the food they eat. Then they eat more—hence gain in height, weight, energy. Thompson's practically doubles the food value of milk and is rich in the food elements that develop strong bones and teeth, firm flesh and sturdy muscles.

Reserve that your boy or girl shall have the tremendous advantage in life that a vigorous body gives. Order Thompson's "Double Malted" from your druggist or grocer now.

for between-meal hunger

At eleven in the morning or thereabouts—and again at four in the afternoon—do you feel "literally famished?" If so, then's the time to "drink a bunch of grapes." A generous glass of Welch's at these hunger-times will quickly revitalize your entire system.

Welch's is the pure juice of luscious fresh Concord grapes, ripened to full flavor under the October sun. It gives you the energizing "sweet" your body needs, without adding to your weight.

It abounds, too, in mineral salts, so vital to your health—all in Nature's most easily assimilable form. Wonderfully appetizing as a breakfast fruit. Drink all you want, any hour of the day or night; your health, your disposition will be all the better for it. It is mildly laxative and non-fattening.

Six servings in every pint—a large cluster of sweet fresh Concords in every glassful. Many prefer it with one-third water added. Just be careful to say Welch's, so that you may be sure to get pure unadulterated grape juice, tempting, delicious!

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES FAILED ONLY AT GOLF

(Copyright 1931)

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Chief Justice of the United States has mastered almost everything he has attempted but golf.

Charles Evans Hughes regretfully classes himself among the dubs at the game. The only phase in which he shows aptitude is putting.

He never gives way to temperament after missing the ball.

Now he has about abandoned the game in favor of brisk morning walks.

He has a kindly courtesy toward those who come in contact with him at the Supreme Court that is reminiscent of the geniality of Willian Howard Taft.

Few know he has a rich fund of humorous stories, and that he can tell them readily with Will Rogers. They are friends, and Rogers has a photograph autographed by the Chief Justice, which says: "Yours for more and better wisecracks."

Speakers at a recent mystery melodrama saw him seated in a box, leaning forward and watching the stage attentively.

He is a man of great commanding power.

He is deliverer of opinions, and he examines every precedent cited in the briefs. His decision arrived at, he calls a stenographer and dictates rapidly. Few alterations have been made.

EX-CONVICT SAYS KAISER, DETECTIVE CHIEF, ABUSED HIM

J. E. Shipp Charges He Was Taken From Home Without Warrant and Held 72 Hours.

John E. Shipp, a former convict and district sales manager for a feed distributing concern, today filed with the Board of Police Commissioners an affidavit charging that Detective Kaiser, with abusive treatment and asking that the detective head be forced to answer his charges before the board by Attorney Evans.

Shipp charged that on the afternoon of May 20 a squad of detectives, variously numbered by witnesses at seven from ten to 14, invaded his home at 5231 Bates Avenue while he was in bed, placed him under arrest and held him without warrant for 72 hours.

Lays Blame on Kaiser.

During their presence in the house, the affidavit recites, "the various detective, without having any search warrants or any legal authority to do so, searched through the house, turning over every article was living, turned topsy-turvy the clothing, contents of bureau drawers, of closets, read letters addressed to the affiant, and papers and letters belonging to the other occupants of the house, and upon his arrival at headquarters affiant was informed that all the acts and conduct as aforesaid was under the instruction of Robert Kaiser, Chief of Detectives of the City of St. Louis, Mo."

At headquarters, Shipp's affidavit continues, he was photographed, his fingerprints were taken and he was held in the hold-over until last Saturday, approximately 72 hours. Last Thursday and Friday morning, he continues, he was forced to appear in the shadow box at headquarters before a squad of police officers and was charged them with being a bank robber and a fugitive from justice.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Supreme Court yesterday dismissed the appeal of Illinois and the City of Chicago from a decision of a three-Judge Federal Court enjoining an order of the Illinois Commerce Commission for lower coin box telephone rates in Chicago.

The State and city objected to the proposal of the District Court to make further testimony in the case before making a final decision. On the original appeal to the Supreme Court principles of law were laid down to be followed by the District Court. The Supreme Court ordered the hearing to proceed in the District Court.

URGES UNION AGAINST SOVIET

LONDON, May 26.—An economic union of the various parts of the British Empire in competition with the competition of the marketing methods of the Russians was demanded by Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, in a speech at Wellbeck Abbey yesterday.

"Dumping has got to stop," he said. "I am not going to let the labor of our hands taken from us by any foreign government carrying out anything like the five-year plan," whether it is Russia or any one else."

Chief Kaiser, commenting on the affidavit, said his men arrested Shipp because he was suspected of trying to get in communication with us. He turned topsy-turvy the clothing, contents of bureau drawers, of closets, read letters addressed to the affiant, and papers and letters belonging to the other occupants of the house, and upon his arrival at headquarters affiant was informed that all the acts and conduct as aforesaid was under the instruction of Robert Kaiser, Chief of Detectives of the City of St. Louis, Mo."

Ship prefaches his recital of his experiences with police by the statement that he was convicted in Memphis, in October, 1926, of receiving stolen property and was bent to serve three years in the Tennessee penitentiary.

Reported to Chief Gerk.

John E. Shipp, 26, of St. Louis, Mo., came to St. Louis in the fall of 1919. He relates that after his arrival he called on Chief of Police Gerk, with his attorney, Shepard R. Evans, told him he was an ex-convict and asked that he be allowed to try to make an honest living without unnecessary interference by police officers.

Chief Gerk says, introduced to Assistant Chief of Detectives Koenigsmith, who presented him to the assembled detectives with the admonition that he be allowed to work at honest occupations and that he be not molested unless seen in the company of questionable persons or in questionable resorts.

Shipp is employed by the Murphy Products Co. of Burlington, Wis., and has an office downtown. In his affidavit he asks that if Kaiser be found guilty of his charges, the Police Board "request his resignation as Chief of Detectives." The affidavit was presented to the board by Attorney Evans.

Twelve recommendations for a "sound, uniform system" of assessing property were made in a report presented to the special committee on assessments of the Board of Aldermen, by the Bureau of Municipal Research, at the committee's meeting yesterday.

The bureau presented a table comparing sale prices of 400 pieces of real estate with the assessed valuations for the years 1925-29. The average ratio of the assessed valuation to the sale price was 53.5 per cent. The period covered by the figures was before the present business depression, which has lowered realty values, while assessments have not been reduced in most cases.

For this reason, a similar survey now would probably show a higher ratio of assessment to value. Carter W. Atkins, superintendent of the Bureau of Municipal Research, said:

The 12 Recommendations.

The bureau's 12 recommendations, four of which are followed in the present assessment system, are:

(1) Appraisal at true cash value, with assessment at uniform ratio of true value.

(2) Separate assessment of land and improvements (St. Louis does this).

(3) Adoption of the unit-foot standard of quantity for land.

(4) Adoption of depth rule, corner influence rule, plottage and other rules for land.

(5) Tax maps showing boundaries of all property (St. Louis has this).

(6) Preparation and publication of a land value map of the entire city.

(7) Adoption of district, block and lot system of indexing (St. Louis has this).

(8) Adoption of standard building classification, with unit factors of building value.

(9) Adoption of rules of economic and structural depreciation of buildings.

(10) A file record of all improvements made to each description.

(11) Collection and filing for current use of pertinent information—sales record of deeds filed, building permits issued, etc.

(12) For personal property, a personal return form to be filled out by each taxpayer (St. Louis has this).

The committee, which is trying to bring about a more uniform assessment system, asked City Counselor Musser, who heads the Board of Aldermen, had authority by an ordinance, to change the present methods. The City Counselor replied that he had been looking into the matter, but had not reached a conclusion. The Assessor, he said, is legally a State official, although appointed by the Mayor, and he was uncertain whether a city assessment would be binding on the Assessor or his officer of conducting the work of assessment.

Cost of Reappraisal.

Assessor Gehner said to the committee, at the outset of its work, that he would accept its recommendations if, after consideration, he found them to be an improvement on the plan now followed.

Members of the committee said that the general assessment proposed, particularly the general appraisal which would be needed, would be $100,000 to $500,000, and that the Aldermen would have to vote an appropriation for the purpose. This would not be worth while, some of the members said, unless there was assurance that the new proposals would be carried out.

Regarding the comparative sale price and assessment figures, the bureau's report said:

"It is generally conceded that sales prices of properties are the best test of true values. There are, of course, instances of forced sales and leases. The generally accepted definition of true value is that price which is paid by a willing buyer, who is not compelled to buy, to a willing seller who is not compelled to sell, when both are conversant with current market values. The analyses were made from verified bona fide sales, not from purchases or sales."

The report said also that, because the general number of sales analyzed, 400, was comparatively small, "the figures must be used with caution, though the Bureau

Opposing Views in Supreme Court
On the Denial of Citizenship to
Prof. Macintosh and Marie BlandJustice Sutherland Says
Oath Requires Alien to Agree to Bear Arms —
Chief Justice Hughes
Takes Opposite View.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 25.—Naturalization was denied to Dr. Douglas Clyde Macintosh and Marie A. Bland, Canadians, in a 5-to-4 decision of the Supreme Court yesterday, because they refused to agree to take up arms to defend the Government in time of war.

Justice Sutherland delivered the majority opinion and Justices Butler, McReynolds, Van Devanter and Roberts agreed. Chief Justice Hughes read a vigorous dissent and Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, often found together in minority opinions, also dissented.

The Government in opposing the naturalization of Miss Bland and Prof. Macintosh, the Canadian教授, already had been set by the refusal of the court to allow Rosika Schwimmer, Hungarian writer and linguist, to become a citizen. She also refused to take an oath to fight for the country.

Justice Sutherland's View.

Justice Sutherland took the view that the oath required by the principle laid down in bearing arms.

He quoted from the decision of Justice Butler in that case, on May 27, 1929, which said: "That it is the duty of citizens by force of arms to defend our Government against all enemies, foreign and domestic, that I will bear my faith and allegiance to the same, and that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, to help me God. In acknowledgment whereof I hereby affix my signature."

The court adopted unanimously a resolution for appointment of a committee to confer with city officials about the development of the two-block plaza, because it was felt the board plan did not correct some of the problems of the plaza neighborhood.

About 150 persons, representing commercial organizations, attended the council meeting at Republic Hall, Grand Boulevard and Potomac street, which inaugurated a system of holding these sessions quarterly in various parts of the city.

"Our depression would have come whether there was a world depression or not," he told the writer. "Why? Because for a long period before the crash our production had been outrunning our consumption. The workers were producing more than they could buy with the wages they received. I don't know to what extent our condition has been aggravated by world conditions, but I do know that our production is primarily due to the inequitable distribution of the earnings of industry as between capital and labor. I have not seen a single denial of that statement—even by the bankers who are urging wage reductions."

Neun Against Plan.

Yesterday, Acting Mayor Neun announced his opposition to the board's scheme, because of lack of parking spaces and the building.

The St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects is likely to take a similar stand tonight. While the city has a $200,000 fund available for the board's office of the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Fund, this plan was questioned by the Municipal Art Commission and the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee, which, in contrast with it, the City Plan Commission.

The art commission and supervisory committee have invited the Plan Commission to discuss the subject with them. The Plan Commission, meeting tonight, is expected to consider its attitude.

Workers Produced More.

"Notwithstanding the general assumption that wages were high, all available statistics show that during the years preceding the depression the increase in productivity per man was greater than the increase in wages. In other words, although the worker got more money, he produced still more goods. Somebody got the difference, but it wasn't me," he said.

"That's what makes me so damned mad at them for doing nothing. The trouble is that they personally haven't been hurt enough by this depression. True, their profits have fallen off, but they are living just as comfortably as they were before. Their children are in the same exclusive schools and colleges, and the wives go to the bull market."

"I know they have!" retorted the multimillionaire Senator. "I know a good many of them rather well. They not only have the ability, but also the individuality; they are not bad men. Heart! That's what makes me so damned mad at them for doing nothing."

"What ought to be done now?" the Senator was asked.

The writer suggested that Congress should restore prosperity by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon," he replied, "but there are many other ways which conditions could be improved. One important element in the present situation is the fact that more than 6,000,000 workers are unemployed. Another is the fact that the 40,000,000 who are gainfully employed are not buying at a normal rate. They live in fear that their wages will be cut, or that they will lose their jobs. Consequently, instead of spending, they hoard."

"A few days ago there was a national convention of mutual savings banks officials in Washington, and it was disclosed that savings are increasing. This seemed to cause some astonishment, but there is nothing strange about it. The disclosure simply confirmed my

Plan Board Proposal.

The plan commission design called for two levels—a landscaped upper one for people and a lower one for concealed parking. The Civic Needs group, the committee which will confer with city officials was described in the resolution as "securing for St. Louis a development on this property which will be adequate to meet the problems pressing for solution, and at the same time guarantee to the city an approach to its chief gateway that will be commensurate with the importance of a city the size of St. Louis. A study of the latest (board) plan does not indicate that some of the outstanding problems in this neighborhood are cared for, chiefly the parking problem, in existing facilities for taxicabs, and also that of separating automobile traffic from the facilities proposed for travelers desiring a rest while waiting between trains."

Chief Justice Hughes Dissents.

Chief Justice Hughes said the cases hinged on the narrow point of whether Congress had exacted a promise to bear arms as a condition of its grant of naturalization.

"That the Congress has not made such an express promise is apparent," he said. "The question is, is it implied from certain general words which do not, as it seems to me, either literally or historically, demand the implication."

Chief Justice Hughes said the oath of naturalization was in substance the one required of civil officers.

To conclude that the general oath of office would bar citizens from offices who had religious scruples against bearing arms, he said, would be repugnant to "the fundamental principle of representative government." He added he saw no ground for interpreting the two oaths differently.

The Chief Justice said the attempt to bind one's conscience by the taking of oaths or the submission to tests is the cause of much irreconcilable conflict.

Chief Justice Hughes referred to the "exemplary" qualifications of Macintosh and said there were many ways of defending the country in time of war other than by bearing arms. He said he thought there was ample opportunity for essential services without overriding religious scruples.

"While it has always been recognized that the supreme power of government may be exerted and

One Assessment 124 Per Cent.

The table showed that the 400 pieces of property sold for a total of $14,201,834, and were assessed at $5,669,343, which is 53.5 per cent of the sale figure. There were 131 sales of property, of which 54 per cent to the sales price; 105 sales of $5,000 to $10,000, assessment ratio 51 per cent, and a varying percentage in the higher ranges of sale prices. Twenty-three sales at prices over $100,000 were shown, and the assessment of these was 68.9 per cent of the sales price.

The analyses were made from verified bona fide sales, not from purchases or sales."

The report said also that, because the general number of sales analyzed, 400, was comparatively small, "the figures must be used with caution, though the Bureau

The General Council on Civic Needs last night aligned itself with other groups that have questioned the Board of Public Service proposal to put automobile parking spaces on Alois Plaza, opposite Union Station.

In other words, although the worker got more money, he produced still more goods. Somebody got the difference, but it wasn't me," he said.

"That's what makes me so damned mad at them for doing nothing. The trouble is that they personally haven't been hurt enough by this depression. True, their profits have fallen off, but they are living just as comfortably as they were before. Their children are in the same exclusive schools and colleges, and the wives go to the bull market."

"I know they have!" retorted the multimillionaire Senator. "I know a good many of them rather well. They not only have the ability, but also the individuality; they are not bad men. Heart! That's what makes me so damned mad at them for doing nothing."

"What ought to be done now?" the Senator was asked.

The writer suggested that Congress should restore prosperity by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon," he replied, "but there are many other ways which conditions could be improved. One important element in the present situation is the fact that more than 6,000,000 workers are unemployed. Another is the fact that the 40,000,000 who are gainfully employed are not buying at a normal rate. They live in fear that their wages will be cut, or that they will lose their jobs. Consequently, instead of spending, they hoard."

"A few days ago there was a national convention of mutual savings banks officials in Washington, and it was disclosed that savings are increasing. This seemed to cause some astonishment, but there is nothing strange about it. The disclosure simply confirmed my

Plan Board Proposal.

The plan commission design called for two levels—a landscaped upper one for people and a lower one for concealed parking. The Civic Needs group, the committee which will confer with city officials was described in the resolution as "securing for St. Louis a development on this property which will be adequate to meet the problems pressing for solution, and at the same time guarantee to the city an approach to its chief gateway that will be commensurate with the importance of a city the size of St. Louis. A study of the latest (board) plan does not indicate that some of the outstanding problems in this neighborhood are cared for, chiefly the parking problem, in existing facilities for taxicabs, and also that of separating automobile traffic from the facilities proposed for travelers desiring a rest while waiting between trains."

Chief Justice Hughes Dissents.

Chief Justice Hughes said the cases hinged on the narrow point of whether Congress had exacted a promise to bear arms as a condition of its grant of naturalization.

"That the Congress has not made such an express promise is apparent," he said. "The question is, is it implied from certain general words which do not, as it seems to me, either literally or historically, demand the implication."

Chief Justice Hughes said the oath of naturalization was in substance the one required of civil officers.

To conclude that the general oath of office would bar citizens from offices who had religious scruples against bearing arms, he said, would be repugnant to "the fundamental principle of representative government." He added he saw no ground for interpreting the two oaths differently.

The Chief Justice said the attempt to bind one's conscience by the taking of oaths or the submission to tests is the cause of much irreconcilable conflict.

Chief Justice Hughes referred to the "exemplary" qualifications of Macintosh and said there were many ways of defending the country in time of war other than by bearing arms. He said he thought there was ample opportunity for essential services without overriding religious scruples.

"While it has always been recognized that the supreme power of government may be exerted and

TROLLEY AND BUS SCHEDULES FOR OPERA SEASON ANNOUNCED

Arrangements Made for Transfers from Street Cars and for Re-routing of Coaches.

Special street car and bus schedules for the Municipal Opera, beginning Friday night, were announced today and follow the lines of regular transportation in previous seasons.

The Public Service Co. will increase the number of cars on its University, Market, Southampton and Taylor lines, going to the park, and has arranged to have street car passengers transfer to special opera busses operating on the highway between and Oakwood avenue from Delmar boulevard directly to the Municipal Theater. The latter group of busses are operated by the People's Motorbus Co., but will accept street car transfers.

On five of its lines, the People's Motorbus Co. will operate busses directly to the theater. That schedule is: On the Locust-Lindell-Waterman line from Eads Bridge; on the South Kingshighway line from Gravois avenue; on the Delmar line from Grand and Washington boulevards; on the North Grand boulevard line from Grand and Florissant; on the South Grand line from Carondelet Park. Starting time at 8 p.m. busses vary as the length of the trips.

The major portion of traffic by regular transfer between bus lines will be handled by the special De Baliviere avenue busses, which will connect with the Delmar and Locust-Lindell-Waterman lines. After the performance, busses on the Kingshighway, North and South Grand boulevard, Page boulevard and Southwest-Russell-Shaw lines will be waiting outside the theater to go to their regular routes. Parking space for 5000 private automobiles is provided.

with the aspirations of our citizens."

Another resolution introduced by Bryan and adopted unanimously petitioned the Mayor and Commissioners to start the clearing the site of Memorial Plaza, by opening a three-block walk for a vista between Municipal Courts Building and Central Library, that is, between Olive, Market, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. It said:

"The city now owns nearly all of the property to be developed as Memorial Plaza. There has been a lapse of many years since the acquisition of this property, resulting in an uncertainty as to when this improvement will be actually completed. A start on the clearing of this property of the dilapidated buildings will have a wholesome effect on our citizens by restimulating an interest in the project, and give an idea of what the plaza will be like."

Lindell Boulevard Development.

Another resolution adopted pledged support to the city in getting a fair determination of damages and benefits in eliminating the Lindell boulevard bottleneck, between Channing avenue and Grand boulevard. Eugene S. Klein, chairmain of the street committee, during his opposition among some property owners to the taxing system for public improvements, declared that this attitude either would give the city a 50-year setback or would arouse "the majority" of the people to work for progress. Failure to keep up the improvement program, he asserted, would encourage establishment of new industries and drive away those here.

A statement from the condemnation commissioners who will fix benefits and damages for widening Grand boulevard, between Magnolia avenue and Lawton boulevard, was read. They pointed out that it was not likely that the property in the tentative benefit district actually would be assessed and promised to give notice through the daily press when they held benefit hearings.

Another resolution adopted pledged support to the special committee of Aldermen of the Board of Aldermen in the effort to abate the smoke evil here.

The trees committee urged planting of trees along widened Gravois avenue.

they would put their heads together and pull the country out of this dump in a hurry. Dan Willard told the truth about them when he said that they lack the will to do."

Did the Senator foresee an early awakening on their part?

"I think they will do this job pretty soon. Congress will do it for them," was the grim rejoinder. "In a representative government like this, people will not suffer indefinitely in the midst of plenty. We have heard a lot of complaints from business men now—government interference in business. It has been my experience as a business man and a public official that government steps in only after private business has failed to meet its responsibilities. We are approaching that point."

EVERYWOMAN'S MAGA

Don't be deceived
by outward resemblance to Kotex

Surface resemblance to Kotex may cloak careless manufacture ... therein lies the danger in accepting substitutes

THE great value of Kotex ... to women with high standards ... is its absolute cleanliness. It's so much more than surface-clean. Kotex is made clean ... by modern, sanitary methods which eliminate any possibility of careless handling. Kotex is really, hygienically, clean.

Unfortunately, this care in making cannot be shown in any outward way. So thoughtless shoppers may be deceived, when offered a substitute that looks like Kotex. This resemblance proves nothing. It's easy to make a pad that looks like Kotex. You want much more—your health requires the hygienic safety of Kotex.

So, when offered a substitute, demand more than surface likeness to Kotex. Ask how this substitute

Kotex protects your comfort in every way, as well as your health. It is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, a wonderful substance that absorbs moisture away from the surface, leaving it soft and delicate. Hospitals use it—they bought over 10,000,000 pads last year—what stronger proof of Kotex superiority could you have?

YOUTHFUL FIGURES

Prefer This Coffee

For it is an important part of the diet which aids them in keeping fashionably slim, and one must be slim nowadays. This Coffee, H & K, is roasted by a process called vi-raying which assists in the neutralization of coffee's natural bitter oils. Thus making the coffee sweet enough in itself for many, and the addition of much less than the usual sweetening, well stirred, makes it please anyone. No wonder style-wise women insist on H & K.

Men Say, "IT'S GREAT"

H & K has a special delight for men because the H & K full, mellow flavor is caught at its height, while still warm from the roaster, and swiftly and irresistibly sealed into an airless, key-opening vacuum package. Men enthuse over a taste that only vacuum packing can retain, that cannot suffer loss as in mere loose cover cans, and needs no artificial methods to keep it fresh. The fine flavor of H & K is proven by the seven to ten cups more per pound.

* Vi-raying is the exclusive name for our roasting process developed through fifty years of experience, research and improvement in coffee roasting which aids in the neutralization of the bitter oils found in all coffee. Every cup of H & K takes more sweetening to overcome a bitter substance than one which is not bitter. Thus, you can readily see why H & K Coffee takes the minimum amount of sweetening.

HOLYSTONING OF DECKS OF WARSHIPS ABOLISHED

Navy Finds Sailors' Least-Loved Job, Wars Down Wood; Measures of Economy.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Sailors may rest now undisturbed by dreams of the holystoning.

Secretary Adams has done away with the symbol of the sailors' least-loved duty as a means of reducing expenditures.

"The use of holystone for cleaning the wooden decks of naval vessels was one of the deadliest reminders that their repair or replacement had become an item of expense to the Navy. Department which cannot be met by limited appropriations," his order says. "The wooden decks of the new 10,000-ton light cruisers are so light that they may be made unserviceable very rapidly by the use of holystones. It is therefore directed that the use of holystones be discontinued for cleaning wooden decks be restricted to the removal of stains."

The cleaning must go on, however, the order noted, "with brushes and sand or by such other means as will not cause excessive wear."

Financier, Who Rarely Talks of Economic Matters, Comments on Return From Europe.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Returning from nine months spent abroad, Anthony J. Drexel, Philadelphia and New York financier, who rarely comments on economic matters, said today, "There is no reason whatever for this hysteria of depression."

"It is largely, as Mr. Hoover recently suggested, a mental state, and the sooner we get over it the better," he added.

"We may hesitate about German reparations, yet they will have to be reduced, if not canceled, before Germany can enter the world trade. China and India want our merchandise, but have nothing but silver, and, before we can enter again into any considerable trade with them, silver must be standardized.

"We have too much of a gold reserve, as it is, and with it frozen and useless in our treasures it is of no benefit to the world. Tariff reductions are inevitable."

Louis D. Reichert, former president of the defunct Reichert-Bright Lumber Co., went to trial before a jury in Federal Judge Faris' court today, charged with using the mails to further a scheme to defraud. The lumber company went into bankruptcy in 1927 and Reichert was indicted at that time, but a demurral to the indictment was sustained and Reichert later was vindicated.

The Government charged that Reichert ordered 100 carloads of lumber from Southern mills between June and September, 1927, which he did not pay for and which he had no intention of paying for. Two Mississippi lumber producers were the first witnesses.

ANTI-FAT ADVERTISER BEATS ORDER OF U. S. TRADE BOARD
Supreme Court Says Commission Has No Jurisdiction Unless Competitor Really Is Harmed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—An order of the Federal Trade Commission directed against the Raladam Co. of Des Moines, makers of an antifat preparation, to stop certain advertising was held invalid yesterday by the Supreme Court.

The commission based its case against the Raladam Co. on a charge of unfair methods of competition. Justice Sutherland, who delivered the opinion, said however, the commission had failed to show an injury to competitors through the advertising, pointing out that none of the supposed competitors had appeared at the hearings which preceded the order. The only evidence, he added, came from medical sources and physicians who did not compete with the concern.

"The commission cannot," Justice Sutherland said, "by assuming the existence of competition, if in fact there be none, give itself jurisdiction to make such an order."

As a result of that, it turns out that the jurisdiction of competition is without foundation, that order necessarily fails and proceedings must be dismissed."

The case was regarded as a test of the commission's control over a wide field of advertising, but the Court held commission authority was sharply defined by the Federal Trade Practices Act under which the commission operates.

Justice Sutherland said the court was not called upon to say whether the Raladam Co. had subjected itself to prosecution under statutes involving the misbranding of foods and drugs.

The commission in its briefs and argument contended the Raladam Co.'s antifat remedy was composed in part of a thyroid extract, that its use was dangerous and that company advertising concerning the product was false.

Man, 78, Dies After Fall.
Henry Stanley, 78 years old, 615 Walnut street, died at city hospital yesterday of a fractured skull suffered last Friday, when he fell downstairs at his home.

The commission cannot," Justice Sutherland said, "by assuming the existence of competition, if in fact there be none, give itself jurisdiction to make such an order."

INTERNATIONAL INSURANCE DECISION IS AFFIRMED

U. S. Courts Without Jurisdiction in Policies Sold in Germany by American Companies

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—The Circuit Court of Appeals here today affirmed a decision of the Oregon Federal District Court holding American courts had no jurisdiction over German insurance cases involving policies issued by American life insurance companies.

The decision was regarded as a test case involving some 28,000 similar car's coverage policies held by American insurance companies to people in Germany and specifying payment of insurance in German marks.

The significance of the case filed by Henry Heine against the New York Life Insurance Co., was said to lie in the fact that in 1924 the German Government decided to convert the old German marks into Reichsmarks on the basis of 1,000 old marks to one Reichsmark. This made the old mark practically worthless.

MOVIE ACTRESS FOLLOWING EX-HUSBAND BREAKS UP PARTY

Warrant Charged Jocelyn Lee With Smashing Windows and Scratch Hollywood Host.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 26.—A warrant charging Jocelyn Lee, motion picture actress, with disturbing the peace, was issued yesterday on a complaint declaiming Miss Lee invaded a party in Hollywood Sunday, smashed windows and dented walls with the heel of her slipper, and scratched Ivan St. John, the host.

Luther Reed, Miss Lee's divorced husband, told the city prosecutor he had gone to Miss Lee's home Saturday to take their two children for the weekly outing provided by the terms of the recent divorce decree, and that she insisted on accompanying them. He refused, he said, and later she appeared at the home of St. John, a play broker and writer, where Reed is living.

"I refused again to accompany her," Reed said, "and she took off her slipper and began smashing things."

St. John said the actress broke 16 panes, swung the slipper with marring effect on the walls, and scratched him when he tried to restrain her. St. John called police, he said, and while they were making notes, Miss Lee put on her slipper and left.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not wish to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

DEAR MARTHA CARR: I wish to have you gather together some people you could easily call at a party at my house some evening soon. Most of my friends are from 18 to 20 years of age. Most of them have a mistaken idea of having a good time. At least that is my opinion. I have been to several girls' homes lately. One hostess came to me after the lagging party had broken up, and voiced her disgust. The parties ended around 11:30 p.m., I am sure the girls did not have a good time. This girl said, "They won't play cards, some won't dance and I hate to suggest games because if I do they will be kissing games." Can't you suggest some games that some young people of this age can play? Even children games might be better well. I would like to see my having my guests sitting around in corners spooning. I want them all together to enjoy themselves.

You know I believe in real love but when I see the way some people carry on it is disgusting. Why can't we have a good time, a normal good time, like some of our mothers and grandmothers?

MARY.

This year I think a good many young people have felt the need of something different to do. They cannot always dance and play cards. Many of them do not want anything in which they have to apply themselves; they would like to pep up a little and use a little thought. It is perhaps for this reason that "backgammon," a very old game, has come back into fashion. The boards are to be had everywhere. And ping-pong has had a revival too.

Of course pajamas and dominoes are liked now, too, but they may be too tame for your crowd. A good many like active games and just because it is so quickly "back number," they might even like to take a turn at pinning the tall on the other blindfolded.

Then there is my old friend, the "treasure hunt," or the one in which each guest is given a riddle or rhyme, these rhymes placed in a small envelope attached to a string, wound about the furniture and all through the rooms so that each person who is given a little ball of string has to wind and wind and pick up chairs and get around the table legs and other intricate places, finally finding the end of the envelope. When all are through, each one has a verse to sing, usually about somebody else, sometimes flattering and sometimes hilarious. Prizes for the one who is through first and a booby prize for the one who comes out last.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I read you every evening and find a lot of useful facts in it. Now I would like you to tell me, if it is possible, if there is anything that will make hair grow fast.

I had long hair, down to my shoulders, but everyone thought I would look good with short hair as I used to wear it short before I started letting it grow. Now that I have cut it, everyone is disappointed and tells me they like it better long. I do too.

I would appreciate very much if you would tell me if you can do anything that would make it grow fast. Thanks.

L. E.

Hot oil rubs and much brushing out to make your hair take on new growth. Keep it very clean by using clean brushes rather than washing it too often. You can use absorbent cotton on the brush to help cleanse it. A good tonic also is helpful.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I want to take lessons in art but live in a very small town and have no advantages in that line. I would like to have you give me the address of some art school, but I can't afford to pay much. I have heard of free art schools, but do not know where they are. I would have to have home instructions.

B. O.

Our only chance, in the event that you cannot come to call at all, and have not an artist in your town from whom you could have lessons, would be a course by correspondence. This has been found satisfactory in some cases. The Washington University Art School in St. Louis may be able to suggest something.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am engaged to be married to a boy with whom I've been going about for three years. When we are at a dance, party or gathering of any kind, is it proper for him to say, "Are you ready to go home?" or "When are you ready to go home?"

I want to be sure I am right before I say anything to him about it. But I think it's wrong. So please tell me.

CURLY.

Well, at least, you are probably convinced that his interest isn't straying. And that seems quite refreshing to me. I have so many letters asking me how to keep the wandering eye from wandering and the wanining affection from wearying. Perhaps this method of getting you all to himself and keeping you there wouldn't be described as the "old social secret." No, but I shouldn't let it worry me. You probably govern the situation now anyhow. A woman usually makes the suggestion to leave. But how would you like it if he didn't want to leave?

DEAR MRS. CARR: I enjoy your column so much. I am at present in my third year of high school. I am rather old to be in high school, but I didn't realize how important an education was until after I worked for three years.

I am undecided whether I shall take a business course in high school and later attend a business school for special training, or to become a nurse. Considering I am 17, I thought my age might prevent me from being a nurse. Would it? I think I would like the work and I must consider the salary as I have my own living to earn. How much does a graduate nurse receive? My real preference, however, is in a business course and I would like to become a private secretary, but feel rather discouraged when I observe the low salaries of many of the stenographers and other office workers.

Can one receive the training for private secretary in the ordinary business school? Please tell me some of the private secretary's responsibilities. I am now taking French in high school and wish to know if I would have to master the language in order to take commercial dictation?

J. H.

I know that many persons regard the trained nurse's profession as one that should be gauged by strictly business rules. But to me, it seems that one should have the "vocation" for it. And this may be explained, perhaps, by saying that the love of the work should outweigh the money consideration—just as a physician's practice should be absorbing and interesting to him beyond every other interest. You are bound in such a place to fill a spiritual and mental need as well as a physical one.

Now, however, I am not too old to go into nursing. If you want to do work that ranks above that of the ordinary stenographer and have the price and ambition to get an education which will take you out of the ordinary class, you might find that work profitable as a career. If you are interested in specializing in work that you do best, you would not have to be a French scholar. It is always well to have a working knowledge of French, German or Spanish in this country. They are often most useful in business. There are a number of special schools and some of the business schools specialize in these courses.

OF DENTISTS NOW TELL THE BEST WAY TO CARE FOR TEETH

IT WOULDN'T be strange if you sometimes wonder if you really are taking the most effective care of your teeth and gums. There are dozens of different dentifrices—and countless conflicting theories about oral hygiene. What is right?

An important question! So E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a prominent research institution to conduct an investigation among 50,000 American dentists—a real court of authority. Here is the summary of the answers received:

80% of the answers stated that gum acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation;

80% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;

80% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Could you have any more conclusive evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Try Squibb's. It cleans beautifully—and safely. Contains no grit, no astringents—nothing which might injure. It refreshes the mouth as it cleans. Great for smokers!

Talks to PARENTS

Undirected Energy.

THE obstreperous seven-year-old who, by his disobedience and furious aggressiveness, succeeded in ruining all of one day and part of another for his mother and her house guests, became suddenly tractable and pleasant when he found a pick-axe lying by the barn door.

Although scarcely an ideal toy, it did wonders for him. For an hour he worked steadily, swinging the heavy tool with all the strength of his small body, resting only long enough to explain that he was helping the man who was going to drill a well there.

When he finally put down his axe, he contemplated his hole with satisfaction and was ready to be pleasant to everybody.

A good deal of misbehavior is due simply to the fact that frequently children are given no congenial outlet for their energies.

An active, healthy child needs always to be doing something. It is unfair to place him in a situation where he can do nothing but keep still and be polite.

Children are so easily amused, but work, however, at their pleasures, that it is too bad they are ever permitted to get into trouble. Any sort of congenial play material prevents the arising of those occasions which try the adult's temper and bring at last the punishment which is almost sure to be ineffective.

That the busy child is a good child is something that every mother knows. Unfortunately forgets, because so many other things claim her attention.

Habits of independent play, sufficient play materials of the right sort, and adequate physical freedom would serve to prevent many of the disciplinary problems which beset the path of parents and children.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN
By Mary Graham Bonner

Dry Magic.

Peggy and John were wading in the cool brook with Mrs. Huckleberry and her cow, Mrs. Bosky.

They enjoyed it so much, for the day to which the Little Black Clock had turned the time forward was in the warm summer.

Then what do you suppose happened to Peggy? I'm sure you've guessed correctly. Yes, Peggy had slipped and had fallen into the brook. It was not very deep, but deep enough to soak her thoroughly.

She and John were worried about it. How could they go home like this? But the Little Black Clock was laughing.

"I've not had this chance before," he went on. "Heigh-ho, it's an opportunity to use the dry magic."

"What's dry magic?" they all asked. At least, all of them except Mrs. Bosky Cow. She didn't say a single cow word but looked at Peggy with her soft, big eyes.

"Dry magic," said the Little Black Clock. "It's magic that makes it possible for me to make your clothes are dried instantly. I thought you might get your skirts wet while you were wading and that I would be able to use the dry magic."

"Not that I was anxious for you to get your skirts wet—but I know that happens very often. But now I'll really have use plenty of dry magic."

"Why my clothes are dry now!" Peggy exclaimed in amazement.

"That's dry magic!" shouted the Clock. "Oh yes, I saw it at that I had dry magic."

INCREDIBLE YEAR

Faith Baldwin Who wrote "The Office Wife"

CHAPTER FOURTEEN.

UNTIL her meeting with Bruce Steppeney, Julie's attitude toward her new life was largely that of forced resignation. Her father had wished this harsh transplanting for her, and his word had always been her law. She would not have been human had not certain phases of her strange environment interested her and excited her—an excitement sometimes rebellious, sometimes pleasurable. But there was no heart in her interest until Bruce Steppeney walked into the Desmond drawing-room and into Julie's life.

He came to dinner a day or so after that first evening. He frankly asked Hildreth to invite him, and Hildreth said gladly:

"Of course, you're always invited. But you've been so hard to get at recently, burying yourself as you do."

Bruce laughed. "All work and no play has made me a very dull person," he said lightly, "but I've decided to change my mode of living. Don't ask me to your big parties—just let me come in and out at odd times and have a conversation with you, and again—an family." And if it is permitted, I'd like to take Miss Montgomery out, too. She said last night she had been nowhere except to the shops."

Sitting next to Julie at dinner, he asked her: "Want to sight-see?"

Julie asked gravely "Should I?" "It's done," Bruce answered easily, "by all our best out-of-towners. Of course, New Yorkers know next to nothing about their town. For one hasn't been in the town since I was knee high to a sword-fish. Suppose Julie can spare you, and I discover the city together?"

"I'd like that," Julie informed him with her incredible honesty, "better than anything I've done here."

So Bruce gave up his afternoons, a good many of them, and some times his mornings, and Hildreth said: "Well, I'm sorry."

"He's attracted, of course. Reaction from Naida, I should say. Well, she—I mean Julie—seems a lot happier, and you know, Jack, that while I am perfectly willing to drag her out to the Public Library and the Bronx Zoo, I am more than grateful to have some one else do it for me."

"I'm surprised," he agreed easily. "Park avenue?"

"A circus in themselves!" That was in early spring. The days were sunny and clear, and Julie went shopping for a car. She was accustomed to driving at home, and now, her slim, powerful roadster having been delivered, she proceeded to take lessons from Bruce and Jack in downtown city traffic.

Or had he been married as Willard Huntington Wright, distinguished connoisseur of art and meticulous literary critic?

And how, anyway, did Mr. Van Dine so far trespass upon his rules of living for an author, so recently explained to all the world, that he could allow himself the interruption of a book? For this is what he told an inquiring reporter about his working program not quite two years ago:

"I work 14, 16 and even 17 hours a day, when I am writing a detective novel. I keep this up for six months. If I take any exercise at all, it is at night. Very late, I may sometimes stay out on to Broadway Drive for a little walk and a breath of fresh air. When I have finished a novel I take three months off and go somewhere and fill myself full of sun. It may be Asbury Park, Bradley Beach, Bermuda or south."

"But to go to the theater or to make one of a dinner party or to make work on a book is to interrupt my train of thought and set me back two or three days."

THE romance of S. S. Van Dine and Eleanor Rulapaugh wasn't one of those uneventful things, where two people meet, fall in love, and find a minister. There were as many baffling moments as ever confronted Philo Vance himself, for the couple settled down in Hollywood to live happily ever after.

Most of these complications resulted from the dual role which the author was playing in writing detective fiction under an assumed name and literary criticism under his own name, Willard Huntington Wright. To get a background for teacups in Naida's house one late night, he had to go to the Peter Warrens for themselves and Julie. Mr. Warren had apparently forgotten all about his encounter with Hildreth in Paris—and seemingly she had forgotten, too. At all events she was not forced to turn her ankle that evening.

Bruce, not a member of the Warrens, was included. Pat with Julie's escort, and Julie, in a rather severe evening gown of copper-colored satin, was frankly bored. She was slowly awakening to the fact that places where Bruce was not held no interest for her, that evenings spent in company without her were evenings wasted.

Naida smiled. After a moment she said: "Let him amuse himself with Julie. It relieves dear Hildreth of a lot of responsibility. And Bruce will soon tire of bread and butter."

"She's remarkably good looking, although she doesn't make the best of herself," Pat said musingly.

"When she learns to make the best of herself in the way you mean," said Naida slowly, "she'll lose Trevor's interest. It is her difference which attracts him now. It suited some one to advise her to conform more to our particular rules and regulations—who knows?"

a romance, though, it is necessary to understand just why Van Dine, as everybody knows him, has two names.

Van Dine was a bright youngster. He had attended St. Vincent College, Pomona College and Harvard University, and had been graduated in 1906, when he was just 18 years old.

He edited magazines, wrote articles on painting, drama, literature and music in several periodicals.

Incidentally, he did nine books on various cultural subjects. He was a very confirmed highbrow.

Then in 1923, when he was 24, he had a break-down. The strain of too much writing had undermined his health. He had to go to bed and stay there for two years, and then spend another six months just convalescing.

Illness bored him. His physicians wouldn't let him have his beloved serious books. But the doctor did consent to a detective story,

He stopped, a little out of breath. Bruce, watching her, saw her eyes close a moment and her hand clenched.

Naida started to speak, and then discontinued:

"Oh, you are stupid. I am in wonderland. If some one will fall and break his neck. And they're too wise for that. Let's go somewhere else."

So Bruce gave up his afternoons, a good many of them, and some times his mornings, and Hildreth said: "Well, I'm sorry."

Cooked Foods.

THE discovery of fire was one of the great achievements of prehistoric man. Fire gave him mastery over beasts and over cold. Fire enabled him to mould metals into useful tools and weapons.

Fire also enabled man to prepare his food. For cooking is essential predigestion, outside of the stomach and intestines.

Most foods are made more digestible by cooking and certain foods, as, for example, rice, potatoes, etc., are greatly improved. Cooking renders meat more tender by softening and breaking up the connective tissues. The constitution of meats in particular is changed and its flavors improved.

Cooking also sterilizes food and renders it safe for eating. Metchnikoff considered cooking the greatest sanitary innovation ever introduced to protect man against infection.

Most of the germs which affect man are easily destroyed by heat. Hence fire is truly a great purifier in the cook-pot. There are many advantages, therefore, to cooking. But just some slight disadvantages.

The principal disadvantage in cooking is the destruction of certain vitamins. This is also some slight loss of interest and some loss of the nutritive elements of the food, but these disadvantages are insignificant compared to the advantages.

The destruction of vitamins by cooking may be overcome by regularly including fruits and vegetables in the diet.

Vitamins A and C are particularly liable to destruction by heat. Vitamin A may be readily supplied through butter, milk and cod-liver oil. Vitamin B is found in raw, canned raw cabbage, spinach and in lesser quantities in raw beetroot.

It has been well established that all safe diets must include a certain quantity of raw foods. Raw vegetables and fruits will more than compensate for any slight disadvantages that arise by cooking other foods.

Chopped almonds and raisins are a pleasant change in brown betty.

WITNESSES SOUGHT IN BRUNK TRIAL DISAPPEAR

Adams and Easley of Aurora Bank Can't Be Found When House Managers, After Dismissing Them, Recall Them.

Senate to Be Asked to Punish Them

Harold Willson, Promoter, Testifies That His Visit to Treasurer Was Not Concerning Pierre Chouteau Bonds.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—Having reversed their decision not to call E. R. Adams and M. T. Easley, president and cashier of the defunct Bank of Aurora, as witnesses for the prosecution in the Brunk impeachment trial, the House managers today learned on their attempt to call them that neither could be found.

Representative Limbaugh of the managers said he had asked the Senate to issue an attachment for the two bankers and that their punishment for being out of reach of the Senate would be asked.

Adams and Easley were in Jefferson City Monday in response to a subpoena and House managers were in conference with them in an effort to learn what their testimony would be. After the conference the six managers voted 4 to 2 not to call them on the stand, because it was deemed they would not testify if Brunk had knowledge of the existence of the "Brunk rent account" and the manipulation of the State interest funds in the Bank of Aurora.

After this decision, Adams and Easley departed from Jefferson City.

Under the rules adopted for the trial, witnesses once summoned may be excused by the Senate or by agreement of the counsel for the prosecution and for the defense.

Says They Were Not Excused.

Chairman Clark, Representative Carter and representative Limbaugh of the managers said the bankers were specifically told by the managers that they were not excused, and must hold themselves subject to the call of the Senate.

Following a decision last night by the managers to use them as witnesses regardless of the fact that they probably would testify that they had no knowledge of the diversion of State interest funds or the use of part of such funds as credits on notes owned by Brunk to the bank, efforts were made to reach them at Aurora.

The information received was that neither was in Aurora and that it was not known where they could be reached.

If an attachment is issued, it will be of doubtful value, as the Brunk trial in all probability will be concluded within a week, and if they are not found before adjournment of the Senate, the attachment will be of no effect.

The managers said they desired to use Adams and Easley in the expectation that there were many bankers connected with the bank affairs on which the bankers could throw light.

It was expected that if they were called they would attempt to stand on their constitutional rights, as both are under indictment in Lawrence County on charges in connection with the failure of the bank.

Questioned About Realty Bonds. The principal witness this morning was Harold Willson, one of the promoters of the St. Louis apartment in St. Louis and now living in an apartment in the Pierre Chouteau building. His testimony largely had to do with details of the financing of the building and the sale of the securities.

Representative Heape of the managers, however, in seeking to connect Brunk with knowledge of the use of Pierre Chouteau bonds as security for St. Louis domestic brought out from Willson that on the occasion of a visit to Jefferson City he called on Brunk. Willson, however, denied that they discussed the Pierre Chouteau bonds. The time was not definitely fixed, though Willson said he thought it was very late in 1929 or very early in 1930.

EDWARD W. GRANT TO BE FREED FROM PRISON TOMORROW

Officer of Realty Company
That Failed After $175,- 000 Frauds, Paroled to Pastor by Gov. Caulfield.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—Editor of the defunct Wagner-Grant-Bell Realty Co., St. Louis, and as much involved in deed and other frauds aggregating $175,000, was paroled today by Gov. Caulfield on recommendation of the Penal Board.

His sponsor for the parole noted that John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, who had been active in seeking clemency for him. Grant served four years of a 10-year sentence imposed upon him for real estate frauds. He will be released tomorrow.

Model Prisoner.

In recommending the parole the Penal Board pointed out that Grant had been a model prisoner and had rendered conspicuous service on at least one occasion in the prison hospital when there were several meningitis cases under treatment during the epidemic year.

Grant, now 31 years old, is an epileptic. Letters from physicians to the board attested the fact that he is still suffering from the disease, with which he has been afflicted since boyhood.

Among the letters supporting the parole was one signed by 16 stockholders of the Real Estate Exchange, who had opposed vigorously a previous application for parole, made no objection to releasing him this time.

By a coincidence, Gov. Caulfield, then a practicing lawyer, presented the formal protest of the Real Estate Exchange to the board in the earlier hearing.

Clemency Granted. Grant was committed to the penitentiary on May 22, 1927. The technical charges to which he pleaded guilty were perjury and failure to recite a former conveyance in a deed of trust. He was sentenced to five years on each count, the sentences to run consecutively.

A second reduction was granted yesterday, as the manager of the bank upon whom the trust was set as its goal a cut of 20 to 25 per cent in winter wheat sown next fall.

Such a reduction, board official said, plus a cut of 12 to 14 per cent in spring wheat planted this year which may be further reduced by adverse weather, would be stimulus to improved prices.
